The cinema is probably the most popular form of entertainment in the world. It can serve as a great power for civilization, but in actual fact, it does only a fraction of good it might do. Most film making companies are privately owned profit making concerns. Therefore the majority of film produced by them are too light. They waste our time and money and turn us wild. But there are exceptions. Some films of course, educate us in the science and in the arts. Documentary films have given an excellent teaching on various subjects in the more realistic way than our textbooks. If, cinema can be served from commercial spirits, it may take its place in the great arts of the world.
